

Orloj

Orloj is a special-purpose display font that displays clock faces using OpenType ligatures. It contains only numbers and a few other characters used to display the time.

Bugs

1. If the time is at the beginning of a line, the clock face will protrude into the left margin. To avoid this, place a space or other character (any size, any font) before the time.
2. If the time is typed in French with spaces before and after the h, avoid using two or more clock faces in the same line
